

Catechism of the Crisis in the Church “The New Mass”

- When did Jean Guilton reveal this intention of Paul VI?

During a radio program devoted to Paul VI (December 19, 1993, on Radio Courtoisie), Jean Guilton described in the following terms the intention Paul VI had in devising the new rite:

First of all, Paul VI's Mass is presented as a banquet, and emphasizes much more the participatory aspect of a banquet and much less the notion of sacrifice, of a ritual sacrifice before God with the priest showing only his back. So, I do not think I'm mistaken in saying that the intention of Paul VI and the new liturgy that bears his name is to ask of the faithful a greater participation at Mass; it is to make more room for Sacred Scripture and less room for everything...some would say for magic, others for transubstantiation, which is of Catholic faith. In other words, Paul VI evinced an ecumenical intention to efface, or at least to correct, or at least to relax what is too Catholic, in the traditional sense, in the Mass, and to converge the Mass, I repeat, with the Calvinist Supper.

- Are there other testimonies about the ecumenical orientation of the new liturgy?

The principal author of the liturgical reform, Fr. Annibale Bugnini (1912-82) never made a secret of his ecumenical intentions. He made a rather significant admission of as much in 1965, in a striking sentence worth reading twice: “The Church was guided by the love of souls and the desire to do everything in order to smooth the way to union, to remove every stone which could represent even the shadow of a risk of a stumbling block or some displeasure for our separated brethren.” Let's reread it: remove every stone (1) that might represent (conditional tense) (2) even the shadow (3) of a risk (4) of displeasure.

- How did the Protestants understand Paul VI's New Mass?

Many Protestants, who obviously refused the traditional Mass, stated that they saw no difficulty henceforth in using the new rite to celebrate their Protestant Supper. In addition to Max Thurian (La Croix, May 30, 1969), one can quote G. Siegvall (Le Monde, November 22, 1969); Roger Mehl (Le Monde, September 10, 1970); Otfried Jordahn (conference of June 15, 1975, at Maria Laach); and lastly, the official declaration of the Supreme Consistory of the Church of the Augsburg Confession of Alsace and Lorraine on December 8, 1973.

Month of October:

October is especially dedicated to the Rosary: Families should strive to pray their rosary together and, if possible, attend the Rosary and Benediction at the Church.

Fr Fullerton has requested a 30 day Rosary novena for the District. As you know a plebiscite regarding same sex marriage is presently underway here in Australia. The polls will close on Nov 7th and the novena will run from the Feast of the Holy Rosary Oct 7th until Nov 7th. We will ask for the intercession of Our Lady Help of Christian, Patroness of Australia, and for the protection of the family especially through the protection of marriage.

The consecration of the District to the Immaculate Heart of Mary will be renewed on the 13th of October

Banns of Marriage: are announced for the first time between Kieran Moss and Olivia Memmolo. If anyone knows of any impediment to this marriage they are obliged to inform one of the priests as soon as possible.

Catechism: No classes until 27th October. Classes for adults on Friday evenings from 7:30 to 8:20 pm.

Sunday Catechism: No classes today. Classes resume Sunday 8th October.
